Fiber-optic communication is a method of transmitting information from one place to another by sending pulses of light through an optical fiber. The light forms an electromagnetic carrier wave that is modulated to carry information. Fiber is preferred over electrical cabling when high bandwidth, long distance, or immunity to electromagnetic interference are required.

Models of the Universe are described and classified into three major categories: Historic, Expanding, and Cellular. It is shown that all expanding universe models violate the cosmic edge and containment principle. The multi-millennium conflict between the two major world views --the changing dynamic universe and the unchanging stable universe-- is highlighted.
